In the United States, much of the film industry is centered around Hollywood, California. Other regional centers exist in many parts of the world, such as Mumbai-centered Bollywood, the Indian film industrys Hindi cinema which produces the largest number of films in the world.5 Though the expense involved in making films has led cinema production to concentrate under the auspices of movie studios, recent advances in affordable film making equipment have allowed independent film productions to flourish.

Percentage box office losses outside of mainland China for January to March 3, 2020, are 70–75% in Italy, 60% in South Korea, 35% in Hong Kong, the Philippines, and Singapore, and 30% in Taiwan.18 The Los Angeles box office, a key movie market and local economic backbone, was projected to fall by 20% in April 2020 compared to its 2019 figures, based on the state of emergency declared in the county at the start of March 2020.18 Despite the state of emergency, as single screens within movie theatres do not hold more than 1,000 people, they were granted an exemption from the ban on mass public gatherings in California. A National Association of Theatre Owners representative for California and Nevada announced that theatres would stay open historically, movie theatres have remained open during other similar emergencies.19 However, a survey of Americans over the opening March weekend showed support for closing movie theaters.9 On March 15, Deadline reported that over 100 movie theaters in the US had closed, some due to local rulings and others because of an inability to keep them open with no demand3 on March 17, with national restrictions to social gatherings, cinemas across the United States closed.12 However, drive-in theaters, where customers stay in their own cars, were not closed, and quickly grew in popularity again.20

On April 28, in response to Shells comments, U.S. chain AMC Theatres announced that it would cease the screening of Universal Pictures films effective immediately, and threatened similar actions against any other exhibitor who unilaterally abandons current windowing practices absent good faith negotiations between us.150 On July 28, the two companies announced an agreement allowing Universal the option to release a film to premium video on demand after a minimum of 17 days in its theaters, with AMC receiving a cut of revenue.151152 Universal later reached similar pacts with Cinemark Theatres and Cineplex Entertainment.153
